20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

In FY 2023, CHPAC held two plenary meetings on topics of importance to EPA regarding children's environmental health.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

CHPAC is composed of representatives from industry, private foundations, pediatricians, obstetricians, occupational doctors, nurses, scientists, environmental organizations, citizens organizations/networks, environmental justice community, state/local/tribal governments, outreach groups and citizens-at-large.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

CHPAC meets approximately one to three times per year. This committee is needed to assist the Agency in the development of regulations, guidance, and policies to address children's environmental health issues. CHPAC brings external stakeholders together to provide advice from a variety of points of view.

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

Outside perspectives are needed from stakeholders to assist in development of regulations, guidance and policies to address children's health; to advise on the research needed to address risks faced by infants and children related to environmental exposures. There is no other existing advisory committee in the Agency devoted to the protection of children's environmental health. These activities need continuous attention that is provided by the work groups and could not be done through public hearings.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

No meetings were closed to the public.

21. Remarks

All members are Tier 1 (parent committee members). There are no Tier 2 (subcommittee) members serving.

What is the approximate Number of recommendations produced by this committee for the life of the committee?

90

Number of Recommendations Comments

Recommendations come in the form of advice letters. To date in FY 2023, the CHPAC submitted advice letters to the Agency on the Future Direction of the America's Children and the Environment (ACE) Report and Climate Change.

What is the approximate Percentage of these recommendations that have been or will be Fully implemented by the agency?

% of Recommendations Fully Implemented Comments

The exact percentage of recommendations above that have or will be fully implemented is difficult to estimate because the nature of policy recommendations are such that it often takes a long time to implement new policy due to changing agency priorities and resources. To our best estimate, approximately one-third of the CHPAC's recommendations are currently being implemented. Furthermore, all regional and program offices, as well as many other federal and state government agencies, have sought to address the specific issues raised in the recommendations. Finally, the CHPAC's recommendations and meetings have been instrumental in wide-spread education of EPA senior managers and staff regarding the environmental and public health concerns affecting children and pregnant women. This education has brought about significant behavioral change within the Agency and a commensurate increase in the public's trust in and goodwill toward the Agency.
