20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

The U.S. Department of Commerce Trade Finance Advisory Council (TFAC or Council) advise the Secretary of Commerce in identifying effective ways to help (1) expand access to finance for U.S. exporters, including small- and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), and their foreign buyers, and (2) remove obstacles to such finance, capital and related resources. The TFAC members shall provide advice and actively solicit input, as needed, from others in the private sector to help the Department address these objectives.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

The TFAC is comprised of up to 20 members who are industry representatives and experts.

Members represent companies and organizations that are both users and providers of trade finance from a broad range of products and services, company sizes, and geographic locations and shall be drawn from large, medium, and small enterprises, private sector organizations involved in the provision of ancillary products or services, other private sector trade-finance-related entities, economic development organizations and other U.S. regional, state, and local governmental and non-governmental organizations.. In addition, designees from EXIM Bank, SBA, and the Trade Promotion Coordinating Committee Secretariat will serve as ex officio non-voting members.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

The TFAC shall meet as often as necessary as determined by the DFO, but not less than two times a year. For FY22, the TFAC held three public meetings on December 2, 2021, April 12, 2022, and August 4, 2022. The meetings were held consistently to reflect the continuing evolution of the trade finance-related topics under consideration and advisement. The meetings were relevant in that they directly addressed the issues laid out in the charter and met the mandate of the TFAC.

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

The issues affecting U.S. exporters' financing needs remain on-going. There is no other federal advisory committee with the necessary level of stakeholder knowledge, expertise, or experience regarding the broad range of private and public sector trade finance products available to U.S. exporters and their foreign buyers. EXIM Bank's two congressionally established advisory committees only provide advice on the Bank's official trade finance programs. By contrast, the TFAC participants provide input in the design of solutions that can effectively address and enhance the full range of both private and official financing options. It is important to note that the TFAC would not duplicate the work of EXIM Bank's two congressionally established advisory committees. A designee from EXIM Bank serves on the TFAC as an ex officio, non-voting, member to help coordinate the work and recommendations of the Council with the work of EXIM Bank. Accordingly, the TFAC serves the public interest by providing an effective and transparent mechanism for gathering advice from a broad range of stakeholders representing industries and organizations vital to supporting efforts to expand access to trade finance for U.S. exporters and their foreign buyers.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

Not Applicable

21. Remarks

The function of the committee is to advise the Secretary of Commerce in identifying effective ways to help (1) expand access to finance for U.S. exporters, including small- and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), and their foreign buyers, and (2) remove obstacles to such finance, capital and related resources.

Narrative Description

The U.S. Department of Commerce Trade Finance Advisory Council (TFAC) advise the Secretary of Commerce in identifying effective ways to help (1) expand access to finance for U.S. exporters, including small- and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), and their foreign buyers, and (2) remove obstacles to such finance, capital and related resources. The TFAC members shall provide advice and actively solicit input, as needed, from others in the private sector to help the Department address these objectives. In addition, the TFAC provides a forum to facilitate discussion among a diverse group of stakeholders such as banks, non-bank financial institutions, other trade finance related organizations, and exporters, so that the TFAC can better perform its advisory work for the Secretary by obtaining a better understanding of current challenges facing U.S. exporters and their foreign buyers in accessing financing and capital.
