20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

The Advisory Committee for Energy-Related Epidemiologic Research (ACERER) was established to provide advice and make recommendations to the Secretary, Department of Health and Human Services (HHS); the Director, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC); and Administrator, Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR), on establishment of a research agenda and the conduct of a research program pertaining to energy-related epidemiologic studies.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

The Committee consisted of 15 public members, including the Chair. Members were selected by the Secretary, HHS, from authorities knowledgeable in the fields of energy-related epidemiologic research and public health, including occupational and environmental health; representatives of public interest groups; and representatives of affected parties (e.g., workers, energy development advocates, and community residents). The Committee also consisted of three nonvoting ex officio members, designees of: The Assistant Secretary for Environment, Safety and Health, DOE; the Assistant Secretary for Environmental Management, DOE; the Director, National Cancer Institute of the National Institutes for Health, HHS; and such additional officers of the U.S. Government that the Secretary, HHS, deemed necessary for the Committee to effectively carry out its function.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

The Committee was terminated in FY 2002 and did not meet.

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

This committee did not meet in FY 2002. The Director, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention approved the recommendation that the Advisory Committee for Energy-Related Epidemiologic Research be terminated effective February 28, 2002.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

N/A
